

BIOGRAPHICAL DETAILS

Roger has a wealth of experience in senior leadership positions, with an ongoing influence over domestic and international strategic decision-making. Roger has played key roles for the Australian Government in sensitive strategic and operational appointments, with a particular emphasis in vocational educational and training. He has been publicly recognised for his achievements by being made a Member of the Order of Australia and a Florida State University Outstanding Alumnus for his work in the fields of education and training. Roger's has blended his focus over the last decade in both the private and public sectors. He offers his clients executive leadership mentoring and coaching; with an emphasis on conscious reflection, executive team building, business strategy, and innovative problem solving.

Earlier in his professional career, Roger was seconded to the United Nations, filling a senior role in the ongoing stabilisation and peace keeping efforts in Timor Leste. He contributed significantly to nation building and national security, providing advice to politicians and senior officials in an effort to enhance domestic & international security. Roger has also led a successful multi-national peace stabilisation and nation building initiative in PNG. The role he played was complex and sensitive, involving reconciliation and confidence building, following intrastate conflict. He is credited with having had a major positive influence in facilitating negotiations and conflict resolution between disaffected key parties to the conflict.

With Roger's current clients, he applies mutual learning techniques, based on his executive experience and ongoing professional development. Roger holds senior company directorships in which his focus is on innovation, strategic analysis, corporate governance and commercial success. Roger provides strategic advice to clients dealing with public sector contracts.
